1. Introduction

According to Ministry of Human Resource Development, Education is very essential to increasing human potentiality and equitability for social and nation development. Providing quality education and universal access, society can do and achieve their social justice, economic growth, scientific advancement, national integrity and cultural preservation. [4]

Over the ages it has been proven that education has devoted itself to the welfare of human civilization. Because of its human civilization has evolved into a civilized race. Along with the intellectual and emotional development of people, it has added a new dimension to their socio-economic happiness and prosperity. Besides ensuring the survival of the people, it enriched their traditions and culture. In the early stages of civilization, man needed very little learning to
